Council Hears Final Report On Street Name Measure

PROJECT WILL BE PRESENTED NEXT MEETING

Creating of Ordinance

EAST AND WEST
STREETS NUMBERED

State Suggested As Name
For McKinley, Main
And Roosevelt

Final report on renaming and numbering Salem streets was submitted to city council Friday night by the special committee in whose hands the project had been placed for investigation and consultation with City Engineer F. S. Barckhoff, following approval of the preliminary report two weeks ago.

The project to simplify the city's system of naming and numbering streets appears to have materialized with this action. The next, and final step will probably be taken at the next meeting, to be held Tuesday, January 8, 1929, as the only step remaining before the plan is entered as a part of finished legislation is drawing up of an ordinance and approval of this legislation by the council.

Names Suggested

Last night's report was concerned entirely with recommendations as to names suggested for streets under consideration for renaming. The plan outlined by Barckhoff for systematized numbering will be followed, and the ordinance committee was instructed, at the motion of Councilman Anna Stratton and second of Councilman George Elcum, to prepare the ordinance.

Changes were recommended, the committee's report states, in such a manner that residents might avail themselves of the most efficient plan possible in the undertaking of such a project. Confusion arising in the past due to extension of streets, with different names into each other will be eliminated and a more efficient plan of numbering will be brought into use.

Work on the proposition was carried on by Max Adler, P. J. Dean, and George Elcum, members of the special committee. Their report suggests the changing of names north of Main st. to read consecutively, Main st. to Tenth. This will necessitate changing of Green to Second and High to Third st. Other recommendations follow:

"That McKinley, Main and Roosevelt be called State st., that Lincoln ave. and Garfield ave. be called North and South Lincoln ave., that depot and Elsworth be known as

Coast Guard Crew Vindicated By Chief

Washington, Dec. 22.—A report vindicating the crew of Coast Guard Boat No. 219 of charges of drunkenness and firing without cause on a fishing vessel in Lake Erie yesterday was submitted the treasury department by Admiral F. C. Billard, commandant of the Coast Guard.

According to the complaint the Coast Guard ship stopped the vessel, owned by the Toledo Fish company near Toledo, O., and searched for liquor. Later the company complained that the crew of the Coast Guard vessel was drunk. Billard said the boat fired a warning shot which did not strike the fishing schooner. He asserted there was no truth to the drunkenness charge.

The report was approved by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman and sent to Secretary Mellon for final approval.

NEEDS OF PARK ARE EXPLAINED BY CITY SOLON

Council Hears Condition
Of Salem Playground;
Commend Work

Need of additional improvements at Centennial park was explained in the annual report of the Centennial park commission, submitted to city council at its meeting Friday night.

Improved driveways, additional tennis courts, sanitary toilets, drinking fountains for convenience of players, were stressed as urgent needs by the park commission.

A total of 93 cents remains in the park fund, remaining from $1,500 appropriated for improvements Jan. 1, 1928. It was explained, in the report that were $2,500 appropriated for 1929, the commission will be able to make some of the much-needed improvements as well as satisfactory maintenance.

The commission's last year were unable to devote more than $290 to permanent improvements, the balance being used for park patrons.

A total of $1,278.75 was paid out for labor, and $220.32 for miscellaneous supplies.

P. L. Rollins, president of the park commission, who submitted the report to council was commended for the excellent work done in the park's improvement.

Several local organizations assisted the commission in beautifying
the park, the Kiwanis club donating 40 trees, and have arranged to place two swings for use of park patrons.

The installation of gas or electricity for cooking in the park shelter house will be financed by women of the Presbyterian church.

Washington, Dec. 22.—Failure of Bolivian Minister Diez de Medina and Paraguayan Charge D'Affaires Ramirez to receive instructions from their governments as to the course they desired the conciliation efforts of the Pan American conference to take, further delayed action today.

A remote possibility that answers would come in time to call a special meeting for late this afternoon.

The arbitration and conciliation conference proper, however, went ahead with its regular work, and at a session of the conciliation subcommittee called for this morning, its report was to be whipped into shape for presentation at a plenary session at 3 o'clock this afternoon.

Dam Bill Boosts Nevada Real Estate

Las Vegas, Nev., Dec. 22.—A real estate boom that will make Ne-

as a summer breeze compared to a Kansas cyclone was expected here as the result of the signing of the Already real estate "prospectors" have staked out lots as far as seven miles into the sand dunes surrounding the town.

News of passage of the bill was the occasion for a great celebration.

collected through continued efforts by members of the Salvation Army in battling the blasts of King Winter by maintaining the usual kettles on downtown street corners.

Additional food, toys and clothes will be distributed by the Red Cross Monday. Lists have been compiled through assistance of other local organizations, churches and clubs and personal investigations have been conducted by Mrs. Myra Wood-

Envoy Williams to select most needy families—those who will appreciate the gifts most.

Toys have been donated by many families to the Memorial building,

choirs of all churches in the city will sing Christmas carols, led by Arnold P. Lutes and accompanied by John W. Hundert.

Historic Old Highway Will Soon Be Ready For Traffic

1929 Should See Shortest Route from Salem Into Cleveland Completed; Stage Coaches Traveled
Over Highway In Pre-Auto Days

With the opening of another section of state highway No. 14 a short time ago, motorists of Salem and vicinity are looking forward to the time, possibly by the end of 1929, when they can travel the entire length of this road to the shortest route to Cleveland.

This road, known in Salem as the North Benton road, is now surfaced from Salem to Deerfield. From the latter village on through Yale to Edinburg the grading is completed and the concrete will be poured next summer.

The old scenic route from Edinburg to Ravenna is a link in this highway No. 14. Thence the motorists headed for Cleveland can take Route 14 into Streetsboro, from that point north to Aurora and So-lon, or continue on 14 to Twinsburg.
By following Route 14 into Cleveland, Salem motorists can make the trip in 63 miles it is said.

Historic Road

This is one of the most historic roads in this section of Ohio. It was opened for river to lake traffic in 1895 and stage coach lines were in operation in May, 1829. From Pittsburgh the overland trips were made through Lisbon, Newardon and Canton west.

The turnpike, from East Liverpool via Lisbon and Salem, was opened in 1824. In 1814 a mud turnpike was constructed from Wellsville to Lisbon. Wellsville being the farthest point north on the Ohio river available to the local territory.

In some years as high as 50,000 barrels of flour were delivered at Wellsville for trans-shipment on the river and it was nothing unusual for 150 loaded wagons to arrive at Wellsville in a day.

This point of reshipment on the Ohio river controlled the business of 15 Ohio counties, including the Western Reserve.

The road from East Liverpool, later from Wellsville, north through

RUGGY PLACES PROPOSITION TO CITY'S COUNCIL

State Requires 3 More
Firemen Than On Rolls
At Present

POLICE NEED IS EVIDENT, HE SAYS

Request Sent To Finance
Committee On Motion
Of Adler

A petition for addition of one policeman and a fireman to the city safety department for 1929 was presented to city council in its meeting Friday night by Rex W. Ruggy, director of public safety.

Ruggy stressed the need of both additions, explaining in the request that the city lacks three firemen from being up to requirements of the Ohio Inspection Bureau, while in relation to the increase of the police department he stated that,
"the need is apparent to everyone."

The petition, at the motion of Councilman Max Adler and second of Councilman W. U. Filler, was referred to the finance committee for investigation. P. J. Dean is chairman of the finance committee.

Ruggy's petition follows:

Asks Approval

I am asking you to approve the appointment of one additional policeman and one fireman for 1929.

The need of more policemen is apparent to everyone. To meet the requirements of the Ohio Inspection bureau we should have three more firemen, but we think that we can get along at least temporarily with one more.

Two firemen now are in the fire department, whose salaries were paid by the Manufacturers' association since May 1st, due to the lack of funds in the city treasury.
Their salaries, however, were paid by the city for three months, from proceeds of the sale of the city's old Robinson pumper, which was sold following the purchase of the new La France.

Salaries for the two new firemen were paid by the manufacturers in May, June, July, August and September, totalling $1,420. The city, in September, October, and November, paid out $902. The budget, passed in July by city council sets aside money for both the two firemen now on the payroll and the contemplated addition.

State Asks

The addition of more men to each department will be along the lines recommended by state inspectors during the past year. The addition of two firemen was necessitated in order to maintain the city's fire insurance at its present rate.

Fire Chief Vincent L. Malloy presented a request that council enact legislation providing the city with a definite building code, as recommended by the state inspection bureau. The code, he states, should provide for safe installation of heating and lighting devices, wiring of houses, regulation of garage construction, moving picture apparatus and handling of volatile oil and other explosives.

Evangeline Booth Leaves for London Traveling Incognito

New York, Dec. 22.—Traveling incognito and wearing civilian clothes instead of her usual Salvation Army uniform, Commander Evangeline Booth head of that organization in the United States, sailed for London secretly early today aboard the White Star Olympic.

As head of the "Reform" movement within the army, Commander Booth sailed to attend the first meeting of the organization's high council which may result in the removal of her brother, Gen. Bramwell Booth, as international head.
He is seriously ill in London.

Commander Booth and her followers are determined to change the Army's constitution so as to eliminate the clauses which not only gives her brother sole control of the organization during his lifetime but empowers him to name his successor and hand down his position in hereditary succession.

BOULDER DAM

At last the long discussed Boulder Dam proposition is a fact. President Coolidge having signed the bill and made the project a law.

It is a lot of money, this $176,000,000 which the Colorado river board says will be required to build the dam which will put this wild river to work.

Millions or no millions, why should this great project be attempted, many are asking. To answer this question, we must consider several others: How will its construction benefit the nation? Will it pay for itself? Will it create a new peril greater than those now existing?

The Colorado, we must remember, is a river which carried a tremendous volume of water which can be used so advantageously that five states quarrel to get their share. No small part of the water is now used, but a great amount now runs off unused at flood time and is an ever-threatening danger should it again break through and submerge the Imperial valley. The people of the lower valley not only see this water flowing away as so much gold from their pockets, but see it as a terrible giant of destruction ready at the slightest pretext to spread the direct disaster over their land.

Again, the southwest is far removed from cheap coal and looks with longing eyes at the power now going to waste, enough in the whole river length, say the engineers, to turn every industrial wheel in the United States.

If, however, the good of this work shall all go to a half dozen states and the greater share to California, the question is raised as to why the whole country should bear the cost. Far-sighted defenders reply that a project of this kind will give returns to the whole nation for the reason that it will tremendously increase the purchasing power of the whole southwest. It is argued, too, that the government millions, much of it probably "pork-barrel," has been spent for reclamation projects where the prospect of success is by no means as certain as is the case here where a vast area is already developed and cities built.

Will the proposition pay for itself? The federal board does not choose to commit itself on the subject. Whether or not the power which will be sold will be sufficient to place the project upon a financially solvent basis, no one can be sure. The $50,000 horse power which it is calculated could be produced even in years of low water flow will certainly go a long way toward the payment of interest charges and will quite probably leave a surplus for the reduction of the capital outlay. Added to the revenue from the power sold the returns from water charges, it would seem that the entire cost could be retired in fifty years. Again, it is well within the realm of probability that without the dam, the government might be called upon to spend as many millions in flood damages and prevention measures within the next fifty years and still have no dam. It is well argued that the money might as well be spent upon a project which will have the double value and this kill the proverbial two birds with one stone.

What new dangers are being created, the doubters inquire.

Not a few people who remember the failure of the dam in California and the loss of life and property wonder whether the construction of this dam, the highest in the world, instead of eliminating a menace, may in fact be creating one far greater. They imagine that an earthquake or a break because of the tremendous pressure of 30 tons to the square foot will precipitate a flood which will wipe out the irrigating system, turn the unleashed Colorado into the Imperial valley and make it a vast unconquerable lake, or completely annihilate the towns of Needles, Topack, Parker, Ellythe and Yuma. Although these are wild guesses the board takes the stand that the dam should be constructed with this possibility in mind.

Everything considered, it would seem that no mistake was made in this tremendous undertaking which will bring the far southwest into its own and benefit every citizen of the nation.

What Others Say

MILLIONS TAKE THE AIR

Skyward the star of financial empire takes its course. A great $150,000,000 merger in aircraft and air transport is Wall Street's latest achievement. Under the forthcoming title of the United Aircraft and Transport corporation it will bring under one control and general management a group of the country's leading manufacturers of air-cooled motors, observation planes and commercial flying machines, as well as a company which is playing a major role in the development of civilian aviation on the Pacific coast. When it is added that the National City bank, the Standard Oil company, the Ford Motor company and General Motors corporation will be represented on the board of directors of the combination it will be apparent that high finance is about to take a real flyer.

Neither in America nor anywhere else in the world has there ever been a consolidation of aviation interests comparable with this huge merger. It is born at an appropriate moment. Twenty-five years ago Wilbur and Orville Wright ascended from the barren sand dunes at Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, and flew into immortality. The world's air leaders are assembled there this day to commemorate that epochal achievement. The $150,000,000 consolidation is astoundingly terrible evidence that the airplane has ceased to be an experiment and vaulted into the dizzy heights which seemed men of money seldom attempt to scale except in a spirit of serene confidence.

Colonel Lindbergh expressed the opinion in Washington last week that the overwhelmingly preponderant problem in the field of civilian aviation is the airport. "The imposing aggregation of brains and financial brawn, just brought together in New York for general aviation development, is bound in a spirit of enlightened self-interest to give prompt attention to the basic question of airports," Washington Star, December 17.

WHAT TO DO IN ANGINA
PECTORIS ATTACKSBy Royal S. Copeland, M. D.
United States Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Pain in the heart or chest is more distressing than other pains because it seems closer to the foundation of life. Everybody has a dread of "heart disease," so it is easier to worry about heart attacks than about all the other human ailments.

Angina pectoris is the name given certain terrific pains in the chest. These are likened by many to three symptoms which would appear if the heart were crushed in a vise. Not all attacks of angina are quite as bad as that. But even in the very mildest form there are severe pains in the chest.

The sensation may be a sense of pressure, following walking or climbing the stairs. A friend of mine who has an occasional attack says it is brought on at times by getting his hands very cold.

In the mildest attacks there is paleness of the face. There may be faintness, too. Sometimes there is actual loss of consciousness.

Angina is a remarkably common ailment of doctors. Older states that about one-eighth of all the cases of angina he ever met were doctors. In the worst attack I ever witnessed, a doctor was the sufferer. For some reason it is particularly prevalent in America. Also it is essentially, although not invariably, a disease of men. However, I saw a woman suffer a very severe attack only a few days ago.

There are three chief exciting causes for the attacks. The most common is physical exertion. Needless to say, if you have a tendency to angina, care must be taken not to over-exercise.

Almost as bad as physical over-activity is mental excitement. The emotions may bring on trouble.

Care must be used in the choice of foods and in the care of the digestive tract. When there is a tendency to the ailment, fermentation and gas formation are very likely to produce an attack.

Of course every person who is subject to angina pectoris must be made the subject of a careful examination to determine the underlying trouble responsible for it. What I have told you about the exciting causes will suggest that physical and mental moderation are essential to the avoidance of the painful symptoms.

In the attack it is wise to lie down at once, or to half recline and keep quiet. By this I mean to keep as quiet as possible, because the pain is so great it is difficult to keep from writhing in agony.

There are drugs which your doctor will give you to take if the attack comes on when he cannot be reached.

Answers to Health Queries
W. O. P. Q.—Is it advisable to take soda in lukewarm water every morning to keep the bowels regular?

2.—Does the use of alcohol in any form agitate the system in a way to cause epileptic trouble?

3.—What do you advise for nasal catarrh?

A. No. Correct your trouble by proper dieting. For particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

2.—Alcohol might bring on an attack, but would not produce the disease.

3.—A special nose and throat examination is advisable. For details send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

A. C. Q.—What would cause continuous pains in the chest? What are the first symptoms of cancer of the breast?

A.—May be due to cold, neuralgia, etc. Have your doctor examine your chest and then definite treatment can be advised. A lump in the breast is usually the first symptom of this trouble.

R. I. S. Q.—I have a funny feeling that comes in my throat soon after eating, causing vomiting. Could this be due to gastric or an enlarged gland?

A.—Probably due to improper digestion. Watch your diet and correct constipation. If the trouble persists see your doctor for examination. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, December 23.

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE.

SUNDAY'S horoscope favors spiritual and mystical preoccupations to the detriment of all else.

There are many indications of failure and futility in all other activities, business and personal. The thoughts should be centered in higher ideals and not be allowed to express sarcasm and bitterness.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of many small perils and annoyances, but they may centre their activities on new projects and seek contact with large corporations or secret orders or combinations. In personal matters there should be discretion lest there be infamy.

A child born on this day may have a complex nature. While leaning to the highest spiritual ideals, yet its tongue and intensity will need restraint.

There is a Power whose care teaches thy way.

—William Cullen Bryant.

For Monday, December 24.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast shows many activities and much moving about.

There is a prospect of many short journeys and pleasant and profitable occupations. But there is some menace of fraud, subtlety or duplicity, which it is well to be prepared for and circumvent. Beware lest indiscretions lead to slander.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of fairly lively conditions, with commensurate financial returns. But there is danger of fraud or deception, possibly in negotiations with large bodies or in secret understandings. Beware of slander through impulse and indiscretion. Much moving about and change is seen. A child born on this day may be lively, enterprising and generally successful. It may move about much in pursuit of fortune. But it may suffer through subtlety and deceit from others and latent in its own make-up.

Pastors' Opinions Vary As To Passing Of Small Church; Many Laud Skyscrapers As Place Of Worship In Cities

New York, Dec. 22.—Sharp division of opinion exists among prominent pastors of the United States on the question: "Is the small church doomed?" This was revealed today by a poll taken in which church leaders of the nation expressed their opinion of the statement of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., that the day of the small church is over as far as New York City is concerned.

Mr. Rockefeller was commenting on the $5,000,000 Broadway Temple, the "skyscraper church" now under construction and toward which project he has contributed $250,000. The new temple is to be thirty-six stories. Mr. Rockefeller sees a need for the skyscraper church that will dominate the skyline in big cities.

FIRST FRIENDS

The Bible school of the First Friends church will give a program at the special Christmas service at 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

It is composed of these numbers: Selection by the orchestra; scripture reading and prayer, Raymond Ingram; recitation, "Every Week," Martha Coulson; recitation, "I Wonder," Dale Paxson; vocal solo, Paul Lanterman; recitation, "The Snow Bird," Betty Ellison; recitation, "Merry Christmas," Helen Cable; exercise, "Five Points of the Stars"; vocal solo, Jane Gilbert; recitation, "A Comprehensive Wish,"

thus giving to religion a material as well as spiritual dominance.

Almea Sample McPherson of Los Angeles, celebrated pastor of Angeles Temple which has a membership of 15,000, takes the view that the little church is not doomed, contending that "the earnest desire to worship is all the dramatization the church needs."

Dr. Frank Norris, nationally known fundamentalist and pastor of the First Baptist church of Fort Worth, Texas, disagrees with Mrs. McPherson, however, and agrees with Mr. Rockefeller. He said: "I favor the skyscraper church. The new testament plan was one big church to the city. Then, too, it is in accordance with the development of world business. Little churches, of course, have a proper field in small towns."

Bishop H. J. Mikell of the Episcopal Diocese of Atlanta vigorously asserts that skyscraper churches and pretentious edifices are not necessary to give spiritual dominance.

Dr. George Meeklenburg, pastor of the Wesley Methodist Episcopal church of Minneapolis, frankly declares himself in favor of big churches.

Bishop William F. Anderson of the Methodist Episcopal church of Boston does not approve anything that favors the commercializing of religion.

Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick of New York, pastor of the Park Ave. Baptist church, heartily coincides with Mr. Rockefeller's viewpoint asserting he believes that the Broadway Temple experiment would "serve to dramatize religion" and attract the imagination of the city.

Sharp diversion to this opinion is expressed by Dr. James K. Thompson, of Fort Worth, Texas, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who thinks that the dramatic value of the skyscraper church is doubtful except to visitors and newcomers.

Dr. Paul Rader, noted Chicago evangelist, and pastor of the Gospel Tabernacle, declared the small church is "as much needed as the small home." He expressed the belief that skyscraper churches will be in vogue for a while but eventually will pass out.

Junior Courtney, Cleve Isenhour, Medusa Votaw; song by girls of Miss Pearl Walker's class; orchestra selection; recitations, Vernon Koonitz and Mary McLaughlin; piano solo, Harold Shuler; recitations, Sylvia Evasvick, Billy Gardner, Marie Pavlovich, Dorothy Koonitz, Ralph Walker; offering; talk by Rev. Charles Bailey; vocal solo, Lamoine Derr; book review, "The Mansion," Miss Pearl Walker and Mrs. Loren Herbert with a vocal duet by Mrs. Ward Allen and Miss Olive Vincent; "The Christmas Tree," by members of Miss Mary Lewis' class.

W. W. Weaver's class; recitations.

TWO DETAINED IN DEATH CASE

Teacher Slain in Home; Cause Unknown; House Fired

Carmi, Ill., Dec. 22.—A man and a woman were being questioned by authorities today in connection with the death of Miss Anna Preher, 49-year-old school teacher, whose partly clothed body was found in her home here late yesterday. The woman's head had been almost severed from her body.

Mrs. Maude Chalfant, city superintendent of schools, discovered the crime when she visited the teacher's home to ascertain why Miss Preher had not attended the afternoon session of the White County Teachers' institute. Miss Preher was secretary and treasurer of the institute.

Mrs. Chalfant reported finding a pile of bed clothing in one of the rooms where a hole about four feet square had been burned in the floor, indicating that the slayer had tried to fire the house. The blaze apparently had burned itself out.

Most of the victim's clothing had been torn off, giving evidence of a terrible struggle before she was slain. She lived alone in the home.

After Sheriff Jesse Grison of White county decided that neither robbery nor attack was the motive, he took Isaac Austin, also a school teacher and former neighbor of Miss Preher, into custody for questioning.

Neighbors say Austin and Miss Preher had quarreled frequently and she known to have had an argument as late as Thursday of this week.

STREET NAMES

North and South Eleventh, first Pershing and Evans are known as Pershing st. through its entire length, that Wilson and Race be known as Wilson st., that Broadway and Chestnut be known as Broadway, that Jennings and Coshen be known as Jennings ave., that Painter rd. and Tenth st. be known as Tenth st.

Grant Street

Under the plan, Grant st., which is sometimes confused with Grant st. will be changed to Homewood ave., while South Penn. sometimes confused with Penn st., will be changed to Short ave., of some other appropriate name. The reason for this change, the report states, is the fact that Penn and South Penn are so widely removed and visitors invariably have difficulty in locating the latter.

The complete report follows:

"We have attempted in making this report to visualize the project from the standpoint of everyone concerned, with the thought foremost that we might be able to obtain a remaining and remembering plan which would yield at its destination the greatest efficiency in the purpose which is intended, in using streets names and numbers.

Sentiment

We realize that there is some considerable sentiment attached to street names and we have attempted as far as was consistent, to preserve the same.

JAMES GASKINS

James Gaskins, employee of the R. Thomas & Sons Pottery company, of Lisbon, was found dead about 7 a. m. Saturday at his boarding house, West Washington st., Lisbon. His wife died two months ago. One child survives.

serve the old names throughout the city. We could not, however, consistently be unkind of the fact that the first purpose of street naming and numbering, is to facilitate the location of the various properties and in making the changes, this factor has been necessarily foregone.

We have therefore, adopted for the streets running east and west in the north part of Salem, names which are consecutively numbered from Main st. to Tenth st., which necessitated changing Green st. to Second st. and High st. to Third st.

There has been some confusion between Grant st. and Granite st. Since Grant st. is comparatively new as a residence street, we are recommending that it shall be called Homewood ave. and that the circle which is connected with it, will remain as Home Circle. There seems to be some confusion also on South Penn st. In view of the fact that Penn st. and South Penn st. are so widely removed, we feel that it would be well to give South Penn st. a new name. We have suggested that this name be Short ave.

130 Number System

Regarding the system of numbering which has been laid out in 100 block numbers by the engineering department, we would recommend that this system be adopted.

In order to avoid as much confusion as possible, we would recommend that at the time this change goes into effect, that there be mailed to each property owner a postal card which would give him the available numbers for his particular lot with the suggestion as to which number he should use.

Also we felt that it would be desirable to place new street naming points together with block numbers at each intersection. This, however, would be quite expensive and we would therefore recommend that new signs be ordered for just those streets which are affected by the change. The cost of getting out the change and the new street signs, we believe, could be a matter of a special appropriation on the general fund.

Post Office Favors

We wish to state in this report our appreciation of the many manufacturing concerns' cooperation, together with the federal post office, gas company, telephone company and lighting company, which have so kindly written us of their support in this project. We realize that institutions with large mailing lists are indeed seriously affected by such a change and their willing cooperation has certainly been deeply appreciated.

The cooperation has not been limited to the larger concerns only, but there have been many individuals who have aided with their suggestions and have shown their willingness to cooperate. We believe with universal cooperation that the confusion which necessarily arises from such a project will be greatly eliminated.

We also wish to thank the Kiwanis club for its cooperation in this matter, at whose instigation this project was started.

Wood Scaffolding Causes Heavy Damages In New York

New York, Dec. 22.—Legislation compelling contractors to use steel instead of wood scaffolding on large buildings under construction was urged by fire department officials today as an aftermath of the million dollar fire here last night which ruined the nearly completed Riverside church on Riverside Drive.

Fire Chief Kenion declared the use of wood scaffolding endangers adjoining buildings and the people of the whole city. Wood scaffolding also was used in the construction of the Sherry-Netherland apartment hotel. The scene of another spectacular fire here.

Damage to the interior of the church and adjoining buildings was estimated today at more than a million dollars. The flames shot up the scaffolding on the 400-foot tower which was to cap the stately edifice, and blazing planks dropped on the costly fittings in the church below.

GREAT DRAMA IN PASSAGE OF DAM MEASURE

All Night Sessions Marked Bitter Battle Of Senators

ARMED WARFARE
ANOTHER ANGLE

Dynamiting of Water Pipe
Also Laid At Door
Of Controversy

Washington, Dec. 22. — The scratching of President Coolidge's pen, as he signed the Swing-Johnson bill Friday ended a seven year controversy that twice paralyzed congress and led at times to armed warfare in the west.

The bill was first sponsored by Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California, in the senate and by Rep. Paul Swing of California, in the house back in 1921. It twice passed the house in different congresses but on two occasions, it was filibustered to death in the senate in spectacular and dramatic legislative battles.

Physical violence has marked the controversy at times. Out in California, the desire of the city of Los Angeles for a greater water supply led to several bomb outrages including the dynamiting of a huge water conduit — outrages which sponsors of the bill declared could have been avoided had the Boulder dam been built, with its tremendous increase in water supply for the whole western country.

Battle Long
The legislative battle over the bill stretched over a longer period than in any other measure in recent history. It rivaled indeed the historical battles over the United States bank that marked the Jackson administration.

For years, the bill was fought in committees and in some sessions of congress it was favorably reported at one or the other end of the capital. Finally in 1926, Senator got the bill out into the senate as did Swing in the house.

The senate began its consideration during the winter of 1926-27 with the fight dragging along slowly. To test sentiment, Johnson forced a series of all night sessions.

Under dramatic circumstances with senators sleeping in cloak rooms, the two Arizona senators—Ashurst and Cameron—held the floor all night long aided by a few Democratic friends. In the end, the bill went to defeat because other senators refused to remain in continuous session. A vote was never obtained.

With the advent of the seventieth congress in Dec. 1927, the fight began all over again. The bill was favorably reported in both house and senate. Rep. Swing, after a spectacular battle, succeeded in getting it to a vote in the house, which approved it last May.

Then the fight was transferred to the senate. Again Johnson sought to force a vote. This time the filibuster was led by Ashurst and his new colleague Hayden, and again there was an all-night session, with senators being dragged out of bed and compelled to attend the debate. The two Arizona senators succeeded, however, in blocking a vote for a second time.

When the second session of this congress began a month ago, an election had passed in which Arizona repudiated a governor who had endorsed the fight against Boulder dam. This appeared to weaken the opposition and when senators from other interested states acted as peace-makers, the Arizona senators allowed it to come to a vote. So ended one of the most spectacular legislative battles in all the history of congress.

JACK LITTLE
Station WLW will usher in the New Year with the presentation of Little Jack Little, probably radio's best known personality, and his Mythical Night Club.

Hundreds of thousands of his admirers have tuned to WOC to hear him scamper over the piano keys on New Year's Eve for the past three years. Little Jack this year is expected to add a million or more listeners to his Mythical Night Club audience due to the fact that at midnight station WLW's 50,000 watt transmitter undoubtedly will be available to every radio set in the United States and to a generous proportion of those in other parts of the world. Although he will be at station WLW from December 31 to January 4 and will play on the air many times during that period, he will entertain at his Mythical Night Club only on New Year's Eve.

CHRISTMAS DAY

Festive entertainment lasting for 17 hours will be broadcast by station WLW on Christmas Day, beginning at 8:00 a. m. and continuing for an hour after midnight.

HOLIDAY CRIME HITS CLEVELAND

Bandits Rifle Register;
Minor Holdups
Many

Cleveland, Dec. 22.—The regular holiday season crime wave is in full swing here today, police report, bringing about a dozen robberies and burglaries last night.

John Brueggan, who operates an East End creamery, was knocked unconscious when he resisted two bandits. As they started to rifle his cash register, Brueggan struck one of them, he related, and the other hit him over the head with a black jack, knocking him unconscious. When he awoke the robbers had gone but his money was undisturbed.

Most of the other holdups reported last night were of persons on the street and only small amounts were obtained.

The first automobile ever owned by King Edward, a weird-looking vehicle compared to modern cars, is still preserved in the coach-house at Sandringham.

MOVIES

Four fascinating screen features have been billed by Manager Virgil Baker for appearance at the Grand and State theaters next week. The program for the week at the Royal has not been announced. Two pictures are scheduled for the Grand and State, each playing three nights. "Adoration" with Billie Dove, Richard Barthelmess in "Scarlet Seas," Rod La Rocque in "Captain Swager" and George Bancroft in "Docks of New York" are titles of the shows.

The conversion of a cynical unbeliever into a man of great moral character is the central theme of "Scarlet Seas." Barthelmess is cast as Doukin, a sailor who hates women and refuses to believe in God. He is cast adrift following a shipwreck with a sailor and Betty Thompson, former dance-hall girl, and while in this condition, Barthelmess engages in a fight with a man (James Bradbury) thrown him overboard.

They are saved, and Barthelmess comes in contact with Loretta Young, who plays the leading female part and is the principal reason for his change of character. His powerful story is at the Grand today, Tuesday and Wednesday. Rod La Rocque plays the part of World War hero who turns crook in order to provide food and shelter for himself. He has had his life saved while at war by a German, enacted by Ulrich Haupt, and the reunion of these two under different circumstances provides many thrills.

The feminine, guiding hand is provided by Sue Carol, the heroine, who persuades La Rocque to adopt a straight and narrow as his mode of living. La Rocque is aided in his final life by his valet, Richard Tucker.

"Captain Swager," the LaRocque feature is at the Grand the last day of the week.

Glorious days of romance in the glittering splendor of Russian aristocracy, fearful nights in the disquiet of Paris are colorful scenes brought to the fore in "Adoration" with Billie Dove as leading player. Antonio Moreno is the leading male character.

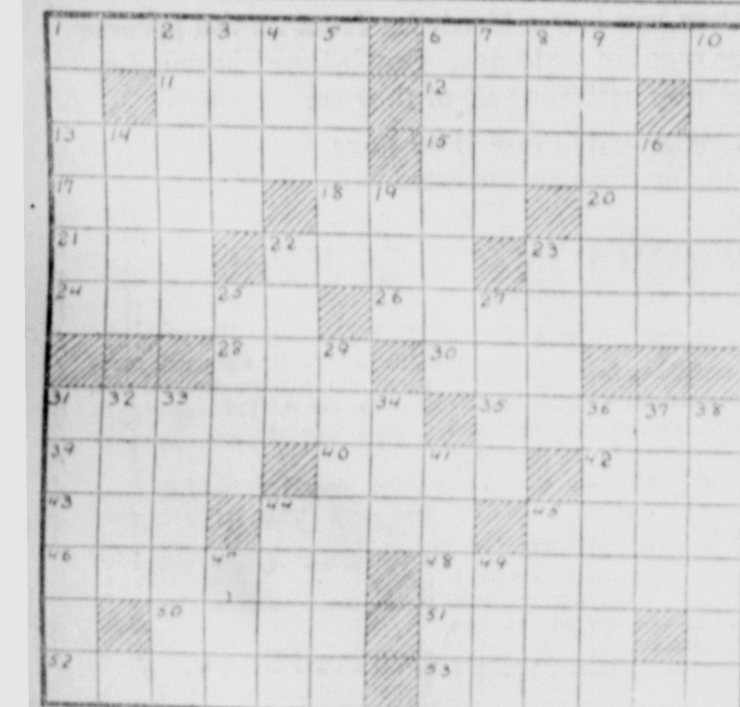

"Adoration" plays the State Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. "Docks of New York" features the State bill Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

George Bancroft is seen as the leading player in the latter feature, a story cast in similar environment as the Barthelmess feature. Betty Thompson has another leading role but in this story wins her man and is Bancroft's loved one. Buchanan, Mitchell, Lewis, and Gustav von Seifertitz have excellent roles.

Schedule for the week and tonight:

Tonight
Royal—Hoot Gibson in "Cleopatra," "The Trail," "Tarzan the Mighty," comedy.
State—"Craig's Wife," comedy.
Grand—"The Cop" with William Boyd, "Hawk of the Hills," comedy.

THE HOME KITCHEN

By Jeannette Young Norton

The Use of Nuts in Cooking

The increased use of nuts in cooking in recent years is noticeable even on the simplest of home tables. Nut specialties range from all varieties in the shell, shelled, salted, sugared, glazed, nut meal and nut butters. Chestnuts have been a little scarce the last two years, and we have had to depend upon the large variety from Spain and Italy that lack the sweetness of those raised in America.

The nuts generally used are the almonds, cashew, pistachio, pecan, walnut and hazelnut. Nuts generally used in stuffing the chestnuts and the pine nuts. There are exceptions in their use according to taste. The black walnuts are favorites in cake and candy. English walnuts are popular for many uses, especially for salads with the celery and apple; also with honey for ice cream sauce. The Brazil and Paradise nuts appear in candy and are much alike in texture, the latter not being quite as rich as the former.

Walnut nuts and hickory nuts are generally served on table with raisins as a dessert feature. The large roasted and so-called cultivated nuts all bring fancy prices, but the medium-sized are quite as good for an eating treat.

Pecan Breakfast Gems
Sift a teaspoonful of baking powder into a cupful and a half of flour, add a saltspoonful of salt, a beaten egg, a cupful of milk and two small cupfuls of pecan nuts chopped very fine. Turn into hot buttered gem pans and sprinkle a few of the nuts over the top. This recipe makes a dozen gems.

Chestnuts with Whipped Cream

Remove the shells from a pound of chestnuts, then blanch them in hot water. Cover with boiling water and boil until tender enough to mash them through the sieve, add salt, a teaspoonful of powdered sugar, a heaping teaspoonful of butter, a half teaspoonful of vanilla, and beat light with a fork. Heap in the center of a dish and turn around a half pint of whipped cream. Serve cold.

Nut Croquettes
Melt one and a half tablespoonfuls of butter, then stir into it one and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour, when blended stir in three-quarters of a cupful of milk. Stir as the sauce

THE GUMPS—THE NEW FOOD ADMINISTRATOR

STYLE EDICTS

Paris, Dec. 22.—Debutantes are choosing tulle lace and not for their evening frocks this fall, according to the pretty ones appearing at smart functions in Paris. Taffeta comes next on the list as successful material and dark-blue and green moire frocks which are suitable for dinner parties and other less formal occasions are also chosen by the younger set.

The debutante daughter of Pierre Cartier, Paris' famous jeweller of the rue de la Paix, has chosen three new frocks from Worth in the new wide-meshed tulle. One comes in pale-green, another in pink and a third in pale blue. "Xenia" comes in sapphire-blue tulle with a straight foundation and fairly short developed in the tulle over a satin lining. The skirt is formed of four long panels just touching the floor and is very full as most tulle frocks are.

Pale green tulle makes another charming debutante's frock, with square décolletage and tight-fitting bodice. The highest point of the full skirt is on the side and falls gracefully to a long straight but full back. Bias folds of the tulle in groups of three edge the skirt, while the enlaid other trimming is in the two long tassels which hang from a small bunch of flowers on the left.

"Chant Hindu" is in white taffeta with a pattern of pink carnations in varied shades. It is worn by the debutante daughter of Mrs. Charles Munn and is very long, cut on circular lines on each side.

Miss Louise Cies was seen at the Ritz recently with her mother, wearing "Hirondelle" in black crepe de Chine with a long pointed scarf lined with emerald-yellow and fastened with a ring of brilliants. The yellow motif is repeated at the left hip by a shirred pointed ornament of crepe de Chine. A smart astrakhan jacket is worn with it.
